HARRISBURG, July 1—(INS)—Increased school subsidies to be paid by the Commonwealth for the 1952-53 school year will be based on more than a billion dollar increase in taxable real estate.

The annual survey of true market values of real estate, which govern the amount of the State cash grant per teaching unit, was made by the State Tax Equalization Board. County assessments are ignored for the purposes of the Board's survey.

The STEB reported certified market values amounted to $24,926,549.516 in the 2,414 school districts at the close of 1951 or $1,296,266,832 more than for the previous year.

County assessments of the same property totaled only $9,849,179.821 for the same year.

In short, the STEB reported county assessments amounted to but 39.51 per cent of true market value.

In 1949, the first year in which the STEB compiled a report, true market values were $22,361,122,508.

HOLIDAY TOLL HAS HOPELESS FINALITY

Some Feel Predictions On Highway Deaths "Psychologically Dangerous"

MAKE SAFETY FORCE

Although some folks feel there is a hopeless finality about the holiday traffic toll predictions that is depressing if not actually "psychologically dangerous", those who make a study of such feel that the publication of figures can be constructive force for safety.

The forecast is a yardstick to point out the danger that does exist unless drivers decide to do something about it.

The hope is that by informing the public of the over-all toll in deaths and injuries that extra care will be exercised by those who take to the highways on July 4th and the week-end.

The National Safety Council says: "Nothing would make us happier, of course, than to have our estimate turn out to be ridiculously high."

"The toll can be held down" the council claims.

Why not do your part? Drive with care. Enjoy the holiday!

FOR THE SAKE OF OUR CHILDREN

Only days remain till the Chicago convention.

Already the tumult and the shouting throughout the nation are dying down, and history is beginning to hold its breath.

On behalf of some twenty-five million Republicans—but on behalf also of all Americans who are dissatisfied with the policies and individuals in command at Washington—the Republican delegates shortly will make the momentous decision.

The future of the Republican Party is at stake—perhaps even its continued existence. So is the life and destiny of the American experiment in freedom and self-government. So is the last flickering hope of this generation for a world of peace and amity and cooperation.

Among all the millions of words which have been poured forth this year, perhaps the most significant are the memorable lines by Pennsylvania's Governor, John S. Fine, speaking to the Republican State Committee May 24:

"I want to do only what is right. I wish to dedicate myself to those remaining to me—my two boys—and if I do what is right for them, I will do what is right for Pennsylvania, for the country and for the world."

Do not those words hold the touchstone of wisdom, the key to inspiration and statesmanship, for which all sincere delegates are groping as they face the supreme assignment before them—that of picking a man who can at once be the focus of their party, of their nation, and of the hopes of all the world.

One may face such a decision on the basis only of the present and the near future—who is most popular just now, who might be easiest to elect next November.

Or one can face it as Governor Fine suggests, on the basis of a courageous determination to stand up for whatever is best, not only for the present, but for the future.

When if not at Chicago is our generation going to start worrying about the next?

For twenty years the pillagers at Washington have been on a riotous spree, living like drunken sailors on money borrowed from future, unborn children.

We are in the closing stages of a two-decade deb

THREE JUDGES HEAR POISON BAIT CASE; TO GIVE DECISION

Three Judges Sit En Banc To Hear Final Argument In Case

TWO ARE INVOLVED

Poison Bait Was Used In Campaign Against Rabid Foxes

DOYLESTOWN, July 1—The case against two officials accused of placing poisoned bait in connection with the State's recent campaign against rabid foxes is being held under advisement. Three judges sitting en banc in the Bucks County Criminal Court yesterday heard the final legal argument.

President Judge Hiram H. Keller and Judges Edward G. Biester and Edwin H. Satterthwaite took the case under advisement and announced they would give a verdict in a written opinion.

Defendants in the action are Thomas D. Frye, executive director of the Pennsylvania State Game Commission, and Edward W. Flexler, of Quakertown, a district game protector for Bucks County.

They were arrested in April and charged with violating a 1939 State law prohibiting the spreading of poison on land.

Yesterday the defendants were represented by Deputy Attorney General David S. Kohn, of Harrisburg.

Find Mrs. Joseph Buck Dead at Her Residence

A Bristol resident who has been in ill health for two years, was found dead in the kitchen of her home yesterday afternoon, the victim of a heart attack. The deceased is Mrs. Ella Mae Buck, 55, widow of Joseph Buck.

Discovery of Mrs. Buck's demise was made by a neighbor, Mrs. Edward McIlvaine, when she called at the Buck home about three o'clock.

Survivors are a daughter and son, Miss Evelyn Buck and Wayne Buck, both of 405 Jefferson avenue, the Buck residence; two sisters, Mrs. John McCullough and Mrs. James Hughes, of Connecticut; and a brother, Howard Ritchie, of Crofton.

Born in Hathboro, Mrs. Buck had resided here about 30 years.

The deceased was a member of Bristol Presbyterian Church. The pastor of that church, the Rev. Edward G. Yeomans, will conduct the service at two p. m. Thursday, at the Molden funeral chapel, 133 Otter street, with burial being made in Bristol Cemetery. Friends may call Wednesday evening.

AIR POWER

The boy who had studied the flight of birds along the Sicilian coast, and who had flown kites to the exclusion of almost every other kind of play, had arrived in the United States at an exciting time. Two years earlier Louis Bleriot had flown a plane nonstop across the English Channel.

Just before the boy arrived—that was in 1911—the first heavier-than-air mail flight had been completed in California.

Giuseppe M. Bellanca had an idea in his head and he was itching to get at it. All planes up to this point—starting with the Kittyhawk flight in 1903—had been "pushers." Young Bellanca felt that the blades of a propeller could also pull a plane. The aviation world knows how right he was.

World War I and a great number of years were to fly by before the first Bellanca plane design made international news. This was the Columbia—the plane designed especially for transatlantic flight. In June, it carried Clarence Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine from New York to Germany. This was the first of 11 Bellanca-designed planes which subsequently flew the Atlantic.

Memories of those early scrambling days may have passed through the mind of this air pioneer as he heard himself praised at a luncheon in Washington. Hosts for the day were members of the Aero Club, an organization which is almost as old as aviation in this country.

Gathered to congratulate Mr. Bellanca were men like Clarence Chamberlin, Clyde Pangborn and George Haldeman. Their names, like those of Curtiss and Langley and Charles A. Lindbergh, in this country, DeHavilland and Roe of England, Sikorsky of Russia, Fokker of Holland and Santos-Dumont of Brazil, may not strike familiar chords with jet-conscious youngsters. But to their elders, these men were aviation.

The memories of Mr. Bellanca and his colleagues span the first halting flights in oversize kites and the 1,500-miles-per-hour speeds set by a pilot in the Navy's "Skyrocket" on the West Coast last summer. To men of their vision this latest speed figure, and talk of rocketing to the moon, are probably no cause for amazement. This has always been the pace as man has tackled and licked the problems of the third dimension.

Congress, adjourning for the political conventions, will leave the dishes unwashed—some of them pretty dirty.

There's talk of a school to train young men for public office, including instruction in how to be friendly to the farmer.

A difficult decision for a human being is to distinguish between his conscience and fear of what the neighbors will say.

who died in 1923. They were the parents of two children, Albert Hogeland, Newtown and Mrs. Norman Pusey, of Avondale.

Mr. Hogeland was made president of the bank in 1927, a year before the opening of the present bank. He was president of the Bucks County Bankers' Association in 1933. Other connections have included being a member of the Newtown Businessmen's Association, president of the Newtown Artesian Water Company and a director of the Newtown Building and Loan Association.

In 1951 the First National Bank and Trust Company ranked fifth among the county's 20 banks in deposits, with over $6,000,000 on record. Situated on the periphery of the booming Delaware River industrial area, the bank and town face considerable growth and change as Hogeland works toward his three-quarter century mark at First National.

He says: "We seem to get too much pleasure from the outside of us now. This is to say, men used to find more joy inside of them. I think they were happier that way than now."

"Another thing, it strikes me strange that we haven't learned in all this time to settle things internationally some other way than by fighting and killing each other. "Retiring? Oh, I don't know. I think I'll keep going, as long as they want me I mean. Kind of keeps you in touch with what is going on, don't you know?"

year; Mrs. Ruth Squyres is employed as third secretary in the high school office at $2600 per year; Mrs. Stanley Zerbe takes the place of Mrs. Taylor Harris as secretary to Mrs. Tompsie Baxter at $240 per month; Mrs. Dufendach is employed as a teacher of Home Economics at $2800 per year; Mrs. D. E. Sheldon is employed as a home economics teacher, and will also teach ninth grade English, at $2950 per year; and Mrs. Grace Hoffman Collins is employed as an elementary teacher at $3200 per year.

The report of the building committee on elementary housing was read by Carl Cortis, of Langhorne School Board. He spoke of the proposed classrooms which had been considered by the committee and pointed out their virtues and their faults.

When he spoke of the consideration of the Pennell school's basement, residents of Pennell who were present at the meeting objected to the known dampness and draftiness of the basement rooms as being unfit for classrooms for children.

The main objections to the rooms considered by the committee were by those who wanted to keep the schools compact, those who felt that basement classrooms were out at all costs, and those who felt that all available school property should be considered before any thought was given to renting outside rooms for classrooms.

The board, after extended debate of the matter voted to rent a room of Cadet Hall at a cost of approximately $1,000 per room per school year, to rent a room at the Pennell fire house at a cost of about $900 per school year—provided necessary modifications were made, and to receive estimates for necessary modification of the southeast room of the Parkland School, and additional repairs to the other rooms of the basement. Waterproofing of the basement of the Pennell school is to go ahead on schedule with a view toward using the basement for classrooms next year if the floors remain dry.

Declaration of Independence

This week marks another anniversary of the signing of your country's Declaration of Independence—the basic principles on which America was founded.

If we may, we'd like to repeat the basic principle on which A&P was founded, "To provide more and better food to more people for less money."

This policy is A&P's "Declaration of Dependence." We have depended on it for our growth because it benefits our customers. They depend on it, too.

is a politician and statesman, allowing himself to be used as a pawn and cat's-paw by an ambitious clique to try to destroy the one Republican leader who has stood out, head and shoulders above all others, in the halls of government where the battle between freedom and regimentation has been raging?

We have seen the laurels of great military achievement fading, and the lustre of well-earned decorations tarnish and darken, as a disillusioned, unhappy man querulously read phrases which we learned later, from his own lips, were not his own.

The candidacy of General Eisenhower, we know now, is the "great illusion" of the year 1952, a figment and fantasy built up out of the arts of publicity and propaganda by those who are determined that if the New Dealers cannot be elected, then someone or some group committed to the same theories must have the preference.

General Eisenhower knows so little about conditions and practices of government in this nation that he has been unable to get through any press conference without one or more confession that his information is too limited to permit him to comment.

On the mere moral phase of the question, are we to take the position, openly before the youth of this nation, that pre-eminent fitness is to be passed over in the choice of our national president, and the high responsibility to be handed about as a mere honorarium and reward for popularity? What hope would there be for the future men of this land to stand up for right and justice and high principle, with such an unhappy lesson before them?

Senator Taft and his family are the embodiment of the principle that rule by law is freedom, rule by men is tyranny. Senator Taft is the son of a distinguished American whose genius and leadership were outstanding in many fields—the practice of law, the administration of the Philippines, the presidency, the chief justice of the supreme court.

Taft's own record for successful handling of public problems, for political leadership, and for unbeatable campaigning, are well known.

Senator Taft stands midway in the generations—with a distinguished ancestry, but with a numerous posterity the needs and opportunities of which are in the forefront of his mind.

Of General Eisenhower's achievement in his own field—that of militarism, of the waging of wars—there can be no disparagement. But in his own words, he is "a novice in politics", and on the confessions he has made of his own ignorance of public affairs, rather less than that when it comes to the field of administration and government.

For Eisenhower to be nominated would be for the Republican Party to entrust its future and the hopes of the American people to an unknown band of those who stand in the shadows of the General, and among whom are those who would pull the strings thereafter.

Taft is the epitome of ability and courage—Eisenhower is a well-intentioned stranger to politics being promoted by those who could never win on their own identity.

For the sake of our children, nominate Taft!

PACIFIC STEEL DROPS NINTH GAME IN ROW

Pacific Steel dropped its ninth straight game last evening as it lost to Franklin A. C. on Memorial field in a Bristol Softball League tilt. Final score was 7-5. The boiler-makers have not won a game since it received a forfeit from Kaiser Metal on May 29th.

The Steel workers outthit Franklin, 6-4, but the Pacific team made too many errors, eight being chalked against it. The errors aided Franklin in the scoring of its runs. Sam Krupa was the losing pitcher with the win going to Tony Capella. Bob Calone and Mike DeLisa had two hits each for Pacific Steel with Tom Ruggieri clouting a home run in the first inning. For Franklin, Toby Oriola had two of its four blows.

GIANTS PUSH VFW DEEPER INTO PIT

The Giants pushed the VFW team deeper in the cellar of the Bristol Boys League by winning a close game on Leedom's field last evening. Final score was: Giants, 3; VFW, 1.

Both hurlers, Eddie Williams, of the Giants, and Tony Angelaccio, of VFW, pitched good ball. Williams gave up three hits, two of which went to Cahall. The Giants had four hits with a pair going to Katz.

PENNDL ACES TOP ALL-STAR BY SCORE OF 5 TO 2

PENNDL, July 1 — The Penn-del Aces topped the Tri-County League All-Stars, 5-2, on the Penn-del Memorial field. The Aces scored four runs in the fourth to chalk up the decision.

The All-Stars made four hits, all off Dave Muth. From the third frame on, Muth, Herb Kaupp, and Frankie Pursell held the All-Stars hitless and runless.

The winning quartet of markers were made when Frank Pursell walked as did Clint Pursell. Fizzano sacrificed but Barney Ludwig was hit with a pitched ball to fill the sacks. Saunders' short hit scored F. Pursell. Clint Pursell scored while Muth was being thrown out. Joe Lukens scored two more with a single.

An insurance run was scored in the fifth when Frank Pursell singled, advanced while Clint Pursell was being thrown out, and scored on a hit by Fizzano.

A hit by Bray with the bags loaded accounted for both All-Star runs in the second. The bases were still packed when Muth fanned Torbert for the third out.

NEWS OF THE LEVITTOWN COMMUNITY

HAVE FRONT-ROW SEAT, BOOMING COMMUNITY

Early Residents of Levittown Watch Variety of Activities About Them

MANY TRADESMEN

By Staff Reporter

LEVITTOWN, July 1 — The families who are already residing in Levittown have a "front-row" seat for one of the biggest housing projects in the world.

From their picture windows, which stretch from ceiling to floor, they can watch as the main timbers are raised into place, as the siding and roof are put into position, all to the rat-a-tat of countless hammers and the rasp of saws by the score.

"There was a question in my mind as to whether I would wait until fall to move, after the dust and dirt had somewhat subsided, or the activity had moved further away from my house," said one housewife along Stonebrook drive, "but I haven't minded it a bit. The dust has not been too bad, and in fact, I have had plenty to occupy my time, what with getting my own home in order, watching the houses take shape nearby, and answering the door to tradesmen."

The tradesmen mentioned, in fact, have broken for housewives, what otherwise would have been day after day of tiresome tasks — those connected with moving.

"We have received such samples as bread, buttermilk and milk; and advertising items including pencils, blotters, and so on," the householders claim. Newspapers have been given out free, and one dry cleaner has provided $1 worth of service to each new-comer.

One of the early residents started counting on her fingers the various type of businesses and dealerships represented in her

Robert and June Langford became residents of this community last Monday, the 23rd, when they took possession of 31 Stonybrook Drive.

The Langfords hail from Long Island, where Robert worked for Levitt & Sons, a job he continues here. They brought with them their pet parakeet.

Because the Langfords were very busy unpacking and trying to get belongings put away, we didn't get too many details of them. But we do wish them the best of luck in their new home and hope they find the Bristol area as friendly and hospitable as the section from which they come.

early callers, but ran out of fingers. There have been bakers, dairymen, laundrymen, dry cleaners, representatives of about five newspapers, dealers in electrical appliances, Venetian blinds and storm windows, and of course the "Welcome Wagon" representative.

"Just what is this 'Welcome Wagon' I see in the streets?" asked one Levittown woman as she cut string beans French-style in her modern kitchen.

"You'll be glad to have her call," she was informed by a Courier representative, as the new arrival was given a brief sketch of the work of that organization.

EMILIE

Miss Dorothy Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Baker, graduated from Mercer Hospital school of nursing, Trenton, N. J., Friday evening, during exercises held in War Memorial Building, there. Miss Baker was one of 21 graduates. The address was given by Rev. Raymond I. Lindquist, D. D., of Orange, N. J. Following the affair, Mr. and Mrs. Baker entertained at their home: Mr. and Mrs. C. Fred Johnson and sons Fred and "Ronny," of Philadelphia; Miss Betty Jane Welsh, Bristol; Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Sieber, Trenton, N. J.; Mrs. Mabel Stegmenn, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Baker, "Billy" and "Judy" Baker, Emilie; Mr. and Mrs. George Baker, Misses Janet and Lois Baker, Fallington; Mr. and Mrs. Willis Wink, Langhorne, R. D. Gifts were received and refreshments served.

Mr. and Mrs. William Batten and family, of Latrobe, will spend 4th of July week-end with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leighton Batten.

Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Bruce were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Joseph and daughter Linda, of Ambler.

Robert Abbott, of Philadelphia, is spending several days with his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. John Morrell, Sr.

During worship service Sunday morning at Emilie Methodist Church, Mr. and Mrs. John Greenlee were received into membership by confession of faith by the Rev. Samuel Gaskell, pastor. The two are former members of other churches. Mr. Greenlee of Penns Manor Chapel, and Mrs. Greenlee of Tullytown Christian Church, both edifices now closed, thus the two were unable to secure letters of transfer.

Mr. and Mrs. Sander Arch and family, here, and Misses Janet and Lois Baker, of Fallington, were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Baker, of Middletown, Del.

conia, for this region. Here entries were judged—75 points for conformation and 25 for condition, making a total of 100.

In addition to winning ribbons, young Pausy received 200 chicks from the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau Cooperative Association, Hatchery Division, Harrisburg. The Charles Price hatcheries gave $5 to the two boys with heaviest weight birds—Raymond Weirbach, Pleasant Valley, and Herbert Ritt, Jr., Bangor. Price, who is also secretary of the Southeastern Pennsylvania Baby Chick Association, says that each entrant finishing the contest will receive a display pencil from his area agricultural adviser.

The crowning of Catherine Hausman, 20, Quakertown, as county broiler queen highlighted the evening entertainment, for which Robert Brugger, Doylestown, served as master of ceremonies. Judges for the contest were T. E. Moncrief, Hanover; Earle K. Berkey, Doylestown artist, and Miss Yvonne Cook, home economist, Lancaster.

Other girls who competed for the broiler queen title were Cora Buckman, New Hope; Roberta Enderslow, Silverdale; Doretha Leight, Quakertown; Alice Meyer, South Dublin; Dorothy Bozenhardt, Dublin; Sylvia Solis, Newtown; Louise Taylor, Langhorne; Joan Walters, Taylor Pleasant; Joan Zimmermann, Hinkintown; and Yvonne Kistler, New Tripoli.

Wilbur J. Berger, Doylestown, who was chairman of the barbecue and queen contest, said: "By staging this contest we hope to get you more interested in eating chicken by seeing 'chickens' who raise the chickens!"

Officers of the county poultry association responsible for planning the festival were Richard T. Cooper, president, Pineville; Edwin Daniels, vice-president, Pineville; and Chester Wurl, secretary-treasurer, Doylestown.

NEW TOWN

Mrs. Robert Fisher and son, of Bloomsbury are spending some time with her mother, Mrs. John Bennett.

David Roberts, son of Captain and Mrs. Lindley S. Roberts, of Salisbury, Md., is spending two weeks with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Nixon.

Expansion of the Morrisville section of Bucks County where U. S. Steel is building its Fairless plant "has markedly affected the local market values of real property and will continue to do so in the future," according to the STEB.

In Clinton County's Ledy township, focal point of the biggest natural gas strike in Pennsylvania's recent history, market values increased from approximately $566,651 in 1950 to $5,911,553 last year.

In 1951, the STEB reported, it processed approximately 205,000 real estate transactions with approximate sales values of $1,800,000,000.

Current market values, the STEB said, range from as low as $13,000 in many districts up to $5,530,176-485 in Philadelphia.

"Changes in individual school district market values reflect the extent of new construction, the supply and demand of existing real property, the development and depletion of natural resources and the local economic conditions," the STEB explained.

O eternal and ever-loving God, we pray that Thou will keep alive in our hearts the courageous spirit that is so necessary to do Thy Will. Grant that we may ever serve Thee acceptably and may be obedient to Thy Voice. Protect and assist us in all our undertakings, and hasten the day when Thy Kingdom will be established on earth. Implant in us that security which will remove all fear in our hearts. Increase in us those deep reserves of spiritual energy which will banish all doubt from our lives. burg, and the Commonwealth's case was argued by District Attorney Willard S. Curtin, of Bucks county.

Private prosecutors in the action are Walter S. Hare, an attorney, and Henry L. Freking, both of Quakertown.

Freking claimed he lost a pet dog because of the poison bait and Hare declared that a sign was placed on his property warning to beware of poison bait in the adjacent area.

In his argument, Kohn said that the State of Pennsylvania was faced with emergency measures to stop the spread of rabies among foxes and that it reached the policy of placing poison bait after conferring with the outstanding wildlife authorities in the United States, the Department of Health and the State Department of Agriculture, last week.

Kohn said the poison program was successful in halting the rabies epidemic among foxes.

District Attorney Curtin argued that "since there is a State law making it unlawful to place poison," the State Game Commission had no authority to place the poison bait.

Under the present plans of the Turnpike Commission most, if not all of the Tush home in Feasterville, will be razed to make way for the new highway.
